

Incoming HTTP request

Router

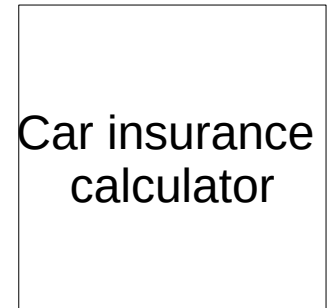

Router forwards request to the relevant controller (in this case the car insurance controller)

Controller

Controller sends the request input to the module which implements the business logic. In this case it is the car insurance calculator which processes the input and sends the correct values back to the controller

Car insurance calculator

HTTP response

Controller returns HTTP response after having received data from the car insurance calculator module